

God's Epic History

With the Epic Order of the Seven

INSTRUCTOR: BETH CUVELIER

"Visit many good books, but live in the Bible." — Charles Spurgeon

Beth graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and then received her Juris Doctor degree from the University of Mississippi School of Law in 1991. She has worked in all aspects of the legal system; however, Beth's greatest joy is teaching. Starting as a training developer and facilitator to teaching at the junior college level, then homeschooling her daughters, she now continues educating in the homeschool community. Beth is passionate about young people learning critical thinking skills to be applied with a Biblical worldview. Beth has developed curriculum for and taught subjects such as logic, latin, criminal justice, Constitutional Literacy, and African-American history. In addition, Beth is passionate about classical studies such as speech and debate, ethics and morality, philosophy, mythology and literature. She is most passionate about students learning truth through research and analysis so they can properly interpret current events with wisdom. The above quote from Spurgeon summarizes her educational philosophy: learning is a way to glorify God because we operate from the discernment of God's Word, which applies to all of life.

Beth and her husband have been married for 28 years, and have moved 7 times. They have three daughters who were homeschooled through high school graduation. Homeschooling has always been an adventure for her family, including experiences like stoning a baby rattlesnake and killing a desert scorpion, which she put in the freezer for school science lessons! Beth has also served in various capacities in ministry, including women's mentoring, Bible study leader, prayer coordinator, and Sunday School teacher.

Beth and her daughters were introduced to Jenny's work in 2012 when they read The Ark, the Reed, and the Fire Cloud. They then got to meet Jenny at a writing workshop in 2014. Jenny's books and writing resources became an instrumental part of Beth's teaching materials for her daughters as she completed their homeschool education - just as Jenny herself has become a dear family friend and inspiration. Using Jenny's books for her daughters inspired the concept of using Jenny's Epic Revolutionary Saga to teach American History for others. Beth is honored and excited to combine her love of teaching with Jenny's excellence in research and writing to present these American History courses: America's Epic Founding With the Epic Order of the Seven.
